HIGH FLOW THERAPY AT HOME

Reducing length of stay. Reducing time in the ICU. Getting patients home faster and keeping them there. Patients, clinicians, and administrators can easily agree on these goals for lowering costs while improving healthcare. For over ten years Vapotherm's High Flow Therapy technology has supported these outcomes successfully in acute care settings by offering clinicians a tool to provide effective respiratory support comfortably and non-invasively, while continually improving safety and performance.

Now, we are pleased to announce the next major innovation in High Flow: Flowrest.® Developed specifically for the home and other low acuity settings, the Flowrest.® allows patients to experience the same benefits of high flow therapy outside of the hospital environment. Flowrest.® Now you have another option to keep patients where they want to be – home.
